Hello Carmel and happy Veterans Day,
There is something that I have to say,
We should salute to all people who have served,
From the Great World Wars,
To those who still serve to this day,

They fight for us and our allies,
Heroic, kind, and brave,
In times of need is when they rise,
And good countries is what they save,

During World War 1 they fought,
Their passion truly glorious,
They won't ever make it out some thought,
But they still came out victorious,

Then again in World War 2 they came,
To win it once and for all,
They did not do it for the fame,
They did it cause it was their call,

Who knows how many people they saved,
Probably a ton,
From trenches to the seas they braved,
To save everyone,

And how could anyone forget,
How they fought in Vietnam,
They dropped down in fighter jets,
Trying to make the world more calm,

If all these heroes would give up,
Just think how the world would be,
We need all those people, yup,

For they are so dear to me,

So maybe you are still left asking,
How do we pay respects,
Well you can do that in many ways,
And one must not forget,

You can tell any veteran,
You care about what they did,
They will surely smile at that,
Even if your just a kid,

You could also pay some respect,
By go to a memorial or event,
It is a very good thing to do,
And all you in the audience are paying respects, too,

Now it's time for me to wrap up,
This poems at 300 words,
But here's 1 final thing I have to say,
We should salute to all people who have served,
From the Great World Wars,
To those who still serve to this day,

Thank you.
